

Carrot Root Crop Production in the Pacific Northwest USA

Jim Klaustermeyer

Klaustermeyer Farms, Basin City, WA, USA

The emphasis of this talk is on Washington state root production for the processing market. Carrots can be grown just about anywhere in Washington State, but the majority of the processed carrot production is grown east of the Cascade Mountains. The discussion includes the different styles of carrots grown, production techniques, pest issues and some of the differences between fresh and processed carrot production.
